Young carers are people under 18 who look after somebody in their family who is ill, disabled, has mental health problems or is misusing drugs or alcohol.

There are lots of reasons why being a young carer might be difficult. Young carers might do extra jobs at home, like cooking and cleaning or helping to wash and dress the person they care for. They might stay with the person they look after and keep them company when they're feeling down.

Newcastle Carers is here to support young carers, as well as giving advice to their family.
